Comment	Response
One idea definitely poor in front of many ideas under brainstorming.	Not certain what this comment means. If the comment refers to the lack of other participants, this is noted. The membership, however continues to desire freedom in their choice of times and venues for training and CALA is not preventing members from participating solely because they are alone in doing so. Any ideas on how to make this better are always welcome.
I feel the discussion forum requires more robust IT support so that it ensures no troubles in web browsing and asses from remote.	This is a valuable observation. CALA is examining a new platform for its online training needs.
Is this course available to overseas person as well? I want to take Internal Auditor course off site and Internal Calibration/MU – Chemistry online if possible,	Online training is available to any person from anywhere in the world. Internal audit courses are skills demonstration courses, and until the technology allows this approach, it cannot be offered online. Alternatives are under review.

Other comments:

- It was excellent
- I will definitely recommend this course to my colleagues.
